Tom Duffy has 28 years of industry experience leading business development in various positions with ADB SAFEGATE since 2000, and Smarte Carte before that. His work at ADB SAFEGATE includes partnering with airports and airport stakeholders to implement customized solutions utilizing automation, integration and data to boost operational efficiency and performance and has given Tom an in-depth knowledge and thorough understanding of both airport and airline operations. With ADB SAFEGATE having its corporate headquarters in Brussels, Belgium, a secondary headquarters in Malmö, Sweden, and its solutions present at more than 2,500 airports, Tom's experience and contacts transcend North America's borders.

During his career Tom's involvement has gone beyond just growing the businesses he represented. He has been an active participant in the aviation industry through his extensive involvement in a variety of organizations. By taking an active role in the industry Tom has developed a keen understanding of the issues facing our members, our airport customers and their customers, as well.

He served on the ACI-NA Associates Board (now known as World Business Partners/Associates) from 1998 – 2001, including chairing the Board in 2000 and served as the Associates representative to the full airport board in 2001. He was Vice Chair of the ACI World Business Partner Advisory Board in 2018 and was elected chair of the group for 2019. He also sits on the Safety Technology Standing Committee of ACI World and has served on the Board of the Airport Consultants Council, another organization he has been active with since 1991.

As a leader of airport related businesses and industry trade associations, Tom has led and participated in numerous formal strategic planning processes.
